

Challenge

Scientists have discovered a new species of animal. They are trying to decide whether it is a mammal, fish, bird, amphibian or reptile but they need your help! Read the description of the animal and decide which group it should be in.

The animal we have found is green. It doesn't have fur but it does have scales. We have also observed it laying eggs.

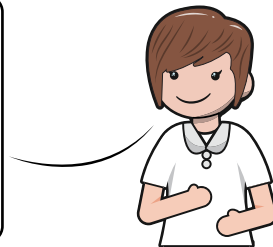

What group could the animal belong to? Why?

Challenge

Scientists have discovered a new species of animal. They are trying to decide whether it is a mammal, fish, bird, amphibian or reptile but they need your help! Read the description of the animal and decide which group it should be in.

The animal we have found is green. It doesn't have fur but it does have scales. We have also observed it laying eggs.

What group could the animal belong to? Why?
